

FIRST- GENERATION DRAGONS

Meet: Richard Wynn, First-Generation College Student

Hometown: Willoughby, Ohio

Advice for first-generation students: My advice would be to just be yourself, and you'll make a lot of wonderful connections with a lot of people. Try to reach out to as many people as you can because you never know who could become your best friend in college and the people make it all worthwhile.

Campus Involvement: I am a member of SAAC and on the Men's Track and Field.

Motivation to go to college: My Family was my biggest motivation; nobody else has been in my shoes before so it's really rewarding for me to be here.

Biggest collegiate accomplishment: My biggest collegiate accomplishment probably is getting a 3.0 GPA for the first time ever

You're Invited

Join us for National
First-Generation
College Student
Day in Osceola
Theater on 11/8
at 12:30 pm

Name: Haley Markowich, First-Generation College Student

Hometown: Marysville, Ohio

Advice for first-generation students: Strive for your goals and don't let anyone tell you that you cannot do it!

Campus involvement: Color Guard

Motivation to go to college: To get a better education than anyone in my whole family

Biggest collegiate accomplishment: So far my biggest accomplishment is understanding all the material that I'm reading in each class

Name: Jessie Crump, First-Generation College Student

Hometown: Delaware, Ohio

Advice for first-generation students: Stand out from the crowd and chase your dreams to be a better you, professionally, financially, and personally.

Campus involvement: Business Club

Motivation to go to college: I wanted to do something different with my future career than what my family has done, I wanted to stand out and prove that this is something that I could accomplish on a high level to reach my end goals for myself.

Biggest collegiate accomplishment: My biggest collegiate accomplishment is making the deans list multiple times and essentially just seeing myself grow into the young professional that I want to become.